DEWEY GLAD HE IS OUT.

Admiral Decides Politics Is Not His Forte. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, July 8 .- Admiral Dewey congratulates himself that he is out of politics and free to go where he pleases. His single plunge into politics has convinced the Admiral that a presidential ambition is not what it is cracked up to be.

Although the Admiral has not been invited to serve as a catspaw for the dissatisfied elements of both parties, it has been susgested that he might have a nomination from them if he would take it. Nothing of that kind, however, would tempt Admiral Dewey.

Dewey.

It has also been suggested that the Admiral might be asked to lead the Democratic forces in 1994. Admiral Dewey is averse to looking so far into the future, and he playfully put the subject askie to-night by saying that four years from now he would be an old man. This remark called forth a protest from Mrs. Dewey.

Indeed, as the Admiral sat on the porch of his summer home this evening, he looked fully capable of leading the naval forces in Chinese waters if his services should be required there. quired there.

ACCUSED OF FRAUD IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Percy J. Young, Who Claims to Be Turf Follower, Arrested at Terminal Hotel.

Declare They Were Swindled-Two Men in Custody in California.

Percy J. Young, who claims to be a follower of the turf, was arrested at the Terminal Hotel yesterday morning by Detectives Howard and Gallagher on a telegram from the Chief of Police of San Franelsco, Cal., which stated that the prisoner is wanted in that city on a felony charge. Young denies emphatically that he is guilty of any offense on the Pacific Coast or elsewhere, but telegraphic advices from San Francisco indicate that the authorities have been looking for him and several companions for some time. Requisition papers will be placed in the hands of a detective to-merrow, who will at once proceed to St. Louis and bring the prisoner back to this city.

Young has operated successfully in all the large cities on the Pacific Coast. He is charged with having fleered Los Angeles merchants and bankers out of $1,000, and with having victimized bankers and merchants at Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo and other Northern towns of large sums on and other Northern towns of large sums on the same proposition. It is said he got away with $1,200 from 1. Dingmore in this city with $1,200 from I. Dinsmore in this city and fully as much more from other firms. Five charges of felony are peeding against him for obtaining money by false pretenses. "Young has $5,000 in two local banks, which has been attached by the detective agency, and will be used to liquidate the standing accounts. Kelly and Hayes, two of his pals, are in custody here, and two more are being shadawed by the detectives in this city and liable to be apprehended at any moment."

Young arrived here on Saturday with his wife, who was Miss Zona Ryan, and whose family still lives in this city. He claims he was on his way to San Francisco and transportation in sapport of this assertion was found in his possession. He declared his object in starting to San Francisco was to assertain why his bank account had been attached He made no effort to conceal his identity.

In their search for Young the police officials of California were assisted by the Thiel Detective Agency, which has offices in this city and Chicago, and for some time operatives of this company were shadowing the prisoner.

Young is 25 years old, of small stature and weil dreased. He hald there must be some mistake. Examined at the Four Courts by Chief of Detectives Desmond. Young said that he is a race horse man and has lived in San Francisco for the last three years. He need his wife departed from San Francisco last May, he said, to visit Chicago, where he formerly lived. He played the races in Chicago, he said, and lost some money. He declared that he sent a draft to San Francisco, where had some money in a bank and was notified that his deposit had been attached. He received the notice on last Friday, he said, and made preparations immediately to start for San Francisco to see what was the matter.

On leaving San Francisco he said that he bought round-trip tickets to Chicago with return by way of St. Louis, as he wanted to stop over in St. Louis to visit his wife's relatives, who live hera.

Young's wife was formerly Minnie Ryan, daughter of Zona Ryan of No. 227 Olive street. The Ryans do not live at that number now, and neither Young nor his wife would reveal their present address.

Managor Mills of the Thiel company said that the Chicago branch was requested by Harry N. Morse of San Francisco, on June 30, to locate Young. This was done, but the arrest could not be made on account of the absence of requisitive papers. Trace of Young was afterwards lost. He was again located as he was about to leave Chicago for St. Louis, and it was decided to turn the case over to the St. Louis agency. The result was the arrest yesterday at the Terminal Hotel, where he registered as P. Young and wife, Chicago.

EYE GOUGED OUT BY A SPIKE. James Haley, a Laborer, Seriously Injured by a Fall.

The goods were taken and the horses and wagon sold by the father, but no word of protest was uttered by Jester.

The State alleges that much new and damaging evidence has been discovered since the preliminary trial. Jestet's attorneys have never showed their hand. Their line of defense may be an allist, or they may rely on the weakness of the State's evidence. The body of the missing youth has never been discovered. Every inch of the ground will be stubbornly contested by each side, and a battle royal is expected. John W. Gates, the millionaire brother of the dead man, is in Europe, but the father and mother are expected to-morrow.

The following letter was sent to all the James Haley, a laborer, 40 years old, living at No. 607 North Levee, met with an accident Asterday evening while walking in the Wabash Rallroad yards on Mullanphy street, in which one of his eyes was gouged out. He was walking across the tracks when his foot caught on a rail, caus-ing him to fall violently to the ground. His ing him to fall violently to the ground. His eye was penetrated by an iron spike, which projected slightly from the track, and was completely gouged out, the Iron entering a considerable dis'ance into his head.

Haley lay on the ground for some minutes with the spike still caught in his eye, as the slightest movement caused him the most expruciating amony, and he was unable to pull hiself loose without incerating the flesh. By raising his head directly upwards he finally got his eye loose from the iron.

When he arose he staggered towards Mullanphy street, where he was seen by a policeman, who sent him to the Dispensary. His injury was dressed and he was sent to the City Hospital.

COULD NOT LIVE WITHOUT HUSBAND

Body of Mrs. Lehnis, Who Drowned Herself After Killing Child, to Be Buried To-Day.

SAID TO BE LEADER OF GANG. FORMERLY LIVED IN ST. LOUIS.

Complainants Are Merchants Who Husband Died Last April at Memphis, Tenn.-Widow Went to Cincinnati to Work-One Son Remains Alive.

> In a little cemetery at St. Albans, W. Va., will be enacted this afternoon the last scene in one of the real tragedles of every-day life. An additional point of interest to St. Louisans lies in the fact that the principals were until recently residents of this city. Beside the newly made grave of Charles Leonis, formerly a young railroad man of this city, will be burfed in one coffin the bodies of his widow, who committed suicide Thursday by jumping into the Obio River at Cincinnati, and of his infant son, whom she killed a few minutes before taking ber own life. A futile attempt was made also to kill her older son.

Charles Lehnis was local contracting cent of the Kanawha Dispatch freight line and lived at No. 3810 Luclede avenue until April 1, when he was premoted for his efficient services and sent to Memphis, Tenn. While arranging his new home at that place he contracted a cold, which developed into rapid pneumonia, from which he died on April 6. Charles, 4 years old, and Thornton, an infant son, were left on Mrs. Lehn's's hands. After her husband's death she grew more and more despondent until all culminated in her desperate act of Thursday.

A note which she left as a farewell messuge to her brether explains that since her husband died no one seemed to care for her and she found it impossible to get along with relatives with whom she had gone to live. While the note in the main is quite practical it closes like one in a maniac spell, declaring that she is the happiest person in the world, as she in a few hours would join her dead husband. Mrs. Lehnis was obliged to carn a living from the time she was is years old, and did not know what happiness was, as she offer said until she was married.

often sald, until she was married.

At her husband's death Mrs. Lehnis was left in strattened circumstances, but through the efforts of Mr. Stockwell Dudley, local agent for the Kanawha Dispatch under whom Lehnis was formerly employed, she was given a position in the offices at Cincinnati, where she worked up to the day of her death. She lived with two aunts of her husband in Norwood, a

On the Fourth of July Mrs. Lehnis, it seems, criticised one of her children and there was a family quarrel, the two aums taking the part of the child. The result was that Mrs. Lehnis left the house with her two children. She went to the house of a friend in Lombardy, but her friend had meved out. Mrs. David McManus, the owner of the flats, was so taken with Mrs. Lehnis's story that she willingly agreed to take them in for the night and showed them to her spare room.

It was then quite late in the afternoon. After dinner the young widow and her two children went into their room and were seen no more. Mrs. Lehnis put her children to bed and then sat down to meditate upon her lot. It was probably then that she decided upon her horrible deed of murder and suicide, but the thoughts that crowded through her mind can only be judged by the facts as they were found by the police.

After writing her farewell message she walked to the beliside where her two little ones were sleeping and saturated the pillow with chloroform which she had purchased a menuit previous. Some of the liquid was poured on little Thornton's face. low with chloroform which she had pur-chased a mouth previous. Some of the liquid was poured on little Thornton's face. This done, she turned on the gas, closed the door and left the house. It was then 5 o'clock in the morning. She went to the Kamswha Dispatch office, where she found the jaultor. She asked the best way to Covington, he told her to go over the C. and O. bridge. She walked out on the bridge. When she reached the center a sol-liary pedestrian at the other end saw her bringe. When she reached the center a sol-liary pedestrian at the other end saw her step out to the side, gather up her skirts and plunge into the water. 189 feet below. She never arose. Two days later her body was found on the river bank five miles away.

About two hours after Mrs. Lehnis left the house Mrs. McManus heard a fall in the spare room. She went into the hall, where she caught the odor of escaping gas. She guessed what had happened and opened the door. Charles had managed to get up from the bed, but fell to the floor. The fresh air revived him, but the baby, Thornton, was long past relief. Charles, the only remaining member of a happy young family of three months age, will probably be adopted by his nunt in Rosebud, Mont.

Dewey have returned for a season to Beauvoir, their beautiful home near Washington. The Admiral is deeply interested in the war in China.

"Will the mayy take any part in this war?" he was asked. The Admiral replied thoughtfully: "Ah, who can tell-who can tell?" indi-cating that the subject was one that lay very near his heart.
"It is reported, Admiral, that you are to go to command the American and perhaps the international fleet; have you any inti-mation that you will be sent to China?" The Admiral paused for some moments. "Should I be sent," he answered, "I would necessarity be in command of the interna-tional fleet, by reason of my rank. But such an order would only be issued in the event of the combined Powers engaging in the war." The Admiral is apparently of the opinion that the war will be confined to land en-gagements, and that there will not be any general participation of the naval forces.

"Have I been ordered home? Well, will you not kindly state that, having finished my work in Newport, I have returned to Washington in obedience to orders delivered before I left this city."
